Do You Have Questions About:

How to prepare for an IEP or 504 meeting?

Your role as a parent in the IEP or 504 meeting?

Your child's IEP or 504 services?

Transition services and graduation requirements?

Use of restraint and seclusion in schools?

Your rights regarding the IEP or 504 processes?

Come to the Special Education trainings and receive the answers to your questions. The goal of the FREE trainings is to provide parents with information regarding their role, rights, and responsibilities to assist them to better understand the special education and Section 504 process. The training will present parents with information and strategies on preparing for the IEP meeting, parent and professional collaboration, development of self advocacy skills, and IEP compliance. The training will also provide information on the use of restraint and seclusion in schools and transition services and graduation requirements for students with special needs. All trainings are open to parents and professionals.
